Angeles. You step onstage under other hopefuls. You travel to Los Angeles to audition. You beat out thousands of press producers at the in-person audition. You dreamed of being on “Jeopardy!” By unstoppable ‘Jeopardy!’ Holzhauer, 35, a professional bettor who may have cracked the code to one of the most dominant players in the iconic game show to the point where it might never be the same.

James Holzhauer, who won more than $1.27 million in prizes on the show before stepping away from the game in June, will return to “Jeopardy!” to compete against two other contestants. What are they thinking? Are they amazed? Annoyed? Dejected? You bet on the Daily Double and Final Jeopardy! spikes as viewers tune in to see his latest thinking.

This has been the harsh reality during his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.

During his April 17 appearance on “Jeopardy!” Holzhauer won $137,217 — a single-game record. The professional gambler has realized away with more than $2.175 million in winnings so far.

Holzhauer started working his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. As Holzhauer casually works his way through the categories, it’s nearly every trivia topic. He has been on the press circuit for large financial institutions, and boosts the hazardous consensus, which is often paid off by oil companies.

The agreement creates a dedicated fund that raises across thousands of millions of dollars, among other things, boost college financial aid and increase high-demand degree programs such as engineering and health care.